Golden Horseshoes

There were twenty-one students from five schools participating in the West Virginia Golden Horseshoe Test.

Ten per cent of each 8th grade were permitted to take this test, if they achieved a high score on their pre-test. Thus competition was very keen.

The Golden Horseshoe test was revised and distributed by the State Department of Education. The scoring was done for the first time by a machine and the winners announced from that department.

The test consisted of 100 questions, divided into four parts, namely: general information, famous people in West Virginia's past and present, present day problems of government, and the development of our culture.

The winners were, in order of their scores: Mary Ellen Petre, Rosalie Hill from Durbin, Edwin Good, Green Bank (tie for second place) and Darlene Sharp, Edray.

The four winners were given a trip to Charleston May 10 to participate in the knighting ceremonies at the State Capitol building.

The tradition of the Golden Horseshoe was started in 1716 when Governor Spottswood awarded miniature Golden Horseshoes to persons who crossed the Allegheny mountains and moved into the eastern part of our state.

This was to commemorate and encourage exploration. Thus began the honorary group now known as the Knights and Ladies of the Golden Horseshoe.

Pocahontas County can be justly proud of its junior citizens who have made this study and attained such a goal.
